10:00 Parallel Sessions

10 Years IKI – Highlights and good approaches in retrospect

Session 1: INNOVATION (Room S21)

Harnessing nature to boost adaptive capacity – a success story

The concept of ecosystem-based adaptation (EbA) has become an increasingly important aspect of the international climate policy debate. This session will look at the journey EbA and IKI have undertaken together. Innovations from EbA projects in coastal and mountain ecosystems will be featured, looking at new methodological approaches to finance EbA and how to create momentum for nature-based solutions to adaptation.

Dr Michael W. Beck

The Nature Conservancy (TNC)

Dr Musonda Mumba

United Nations Environment Programme
(UN Environment)

Session 2: AMBITION (Room S17)

NAMAs and NAPs – brought to a new use in the context of NDC implementation

This session will look into how the different concepts of Nationally Appropriate Mitigation Actions (NAMAs), National Adaptation Plans (NAPs) und (Intended) Nationally Determined Contributions ((I)NDCs) have evolved and been taken up and addressed within the IKI over time, now closely linked, with NAMAs and NAPs feeding into NDC implementation. It will investigate how we can make good use of the aforementioned instruments to raise partner countries' ambition in NDC implementation even further.

Session 3: NEGOTIATION (Room S01/02)

From MRV to ETF – unpacking the complexity of transparency negotiations

This session will take a closer look at the topic of MRV from past to present. IKI projects will present achievements, challenges and lessons learned throughout the last ten years. The session will discuss the ongoing UNFCCC negotiations regarding the transition to the Enhanced Transparency Framework (ETF) and attempt to develop visions for the future goals and challenges of BMU's climate financing approaches in the area of ETF.

Session 4: SUSTAINABILITY (Room S18)

Long-term biodiversity conservation through efficient protected areas management

From the outset, the IKI has funded worldwide projects to support the establishment and management of key protected areas, buffer zones and other rich habitats to conserve biological diversity and ecosystem services. By doing so, the IKI contributes to the implementation of the Strategic Plan 2011-2020 of the Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD). This session will discuss the manifold achievements of IKI projects, the lessons learnt and future challenges.

Session 5: TRANSFORMATION (Room S05/06)

Financing the global transformation or transforming the financial sector

Over the past 10 years, the IKI has pioneered and supported innovative financial instruments to attract more public and private resources for climate change measures all over the world. This session will discuss lessons learned and future challenges, focusing on established and new instruments. It will look at the steps necessary in order to effectively support partner countries in financing transformative change and in transforming the financial sector.

12:00 Lunch Break (Römerkeller)

13:30 Panel Discussion (Plenary Room)

Reflecting on 10 years IKI in the wider international context

A rapporteur will provide a brief summary of the outcomes of the morning sessions. The panelists will then reflect on how the changing international context - including the adoption of the Paris Agreement and of the Sustainable Development Goals - has influenced IKI over the years. How has the understanding of project implementation evolved, e.g. in terms of ownership, international cooperation and coordination? What contribution has the IKI made to these developments?

Rapporteur

Jan Peter Schemmel

Director of the Programme Office IKI

Panelists

Yamil Bonduki

Technical Advisor at the United Nations Development Programme

Christoph Heinrich

Director of Nature Conservation at the World Wildlife Fund Germany

Rosa Morales

Director General of Climate Change, Desertification and Water Resources of the Ministry of Environment of Peru

Ambassador Seyni Nafu

15:00 Coffee Break (Foyer)

15:30 Parallel Sessions

Future Prospects – Examples for challenges and solutions

Session 6: Supporting energy transition – challenges and opportunities (Room S21)

In dynamic economic areas such as South-East Asia, integrated planning and implementation of sustainable energy supply is key to meet rising energy demands. This session will discuss the need for feasible approaches, focusing on the alignment of energy security demands with the goals of the Paris Agreement.

Session 7: Mainstreaming biodiversity – challenges and approaches (Room S01/02)

Mainstreaming biodiversity into sectors identified as drivers of biodiversity loss has become a key strategy of CBD. Many concepts and policy tools have been developed in this regard. However, mainstreaming efforts often remain at the pilot or case study level. The session will present and discuss the challenges and new approaches to fill the gaps between theory and practice.

Session 8: The emerging power of cities – fostering sustainable urban development (Room S17)

Today, cities already account for 70% of global GHG emissions, since energy intensive sectors such as industry, transport, housing and waste feature strongly in the urbanisation of metropolitan areas. This session will present the IKI portfolio in Sustainable Urban Development, which has become a cross-sectoral funding priority since 2015 to address the increasing role of cities in implementing NDC, SDG and the New Urban Agenda (NUA) as early as at the local level.

Session 9: Implementing NDCs – experiences in SIDS (Room S05/06)

Small Island Developing States (SIDS) are very vulnerable to the negative impacts of climate change, while at the same time also interested in transitioning from fossil fuel-based to renewable energies. This session will look into the unique needs and opportunities of NDC implementation in SIDS, showcasing how IKI projects could strengthen the ambition level of future NDCs and how they have contributed to NDC implementation to date.

Session 10: Forest and Landscape Restoration (Room S18)

Forest and Landscape Restoration (FLR) has reached an international level of recognition, which reflects its importance for climate change, biodiversity and sustainable development. The Bonn Challenge (BC) and its global goal to restore 150 million ha by 2020 and 350 million ha by 2030 has made this recognition possible. BMU prioritised FLR/BC-based project funding via the IKI, which is now entering the phase from funding and pledging into implementation of FLR. This session offers the opportunity to exchange on FLR implementation.
