Call for project outlines on sustainable recovery - applications open!

The German Federal Ministry for the Environment (BMU) has launched a new funding round of EUR 240 million, for the thematic-oriented selection procedure themed: Creating Green Societies in Challenging Times. This IKI funding programme aims to support developing and transition economies manage the Covid-19 pandemic. The selection procedure is designed as a competition for entrants worldwide, with ideas about projects for climate action and biodiversity conservation in developing and countries in transition.
